THE BEST WEEK-END PAPER FOR DUBLIN

"PUSH AND GO."

s one of those apt and striking parases which are so common in these modern days. The meaning of the saying in question is, of course, well understood. When it is applied to a person it is equi valent to affirming that he is a man of abounding energy and activity. "Push and Go" is a 'quality' which is usually regarded as a requisite to success. Although "Push and Go" may be regarded as a temperamental characteristic, yet at the same time the possession of this quality' indicates a condition of con-aiderable physical vitality. The value therefore of maintaining the general health at a high standard will be at once apparent. To achieve this, attention must be directed to the digestion. This is the basis of normal health and vigour. Any derangement here must be promptly dealt with One of the best medicines for relieving and curing disorders of the digestive system is Beecham's Pills. Beecham's Pills keep the digestion right. This remedy known all over the world for its powers promoting health along these lines.

of Ireland. (Hear, hear.) Precise limitations is should be put into the Act, which might be of coormous benefit not only in providing food for the population, but in finding employment for a class—the unskilled class—of people who needed it, throughout the whole country. If National Service were to be applied to Ireland it should be on the purely voluntary principle, and it must be controlled and worked by popular public opinion, and not by a bureau cracy. (Hear, hear).

Mr. J. Ryan said that if a person were engaged for National Service it should be only for service in Ireland. There were a lot of so-called working-men who never worked at all, and who would not keep any job. One would see on the racecourses thousands of fellows who never did any work. There were people who were grumbling about distress who were doing very well. That was the kind of thing that should be guarded against. If one were to advertise for a labourer to-day he would see the difficulty of finding labour.

Mr. Beattie—You could not get them.

Mr. Ryan—The artisans have all gone to England, where they get good employment.

Mr. Beatties resolution that "A deputation do wait upon the Chief Secretary to impress upon him the great want of employment, especially in the building and kindred trades, in Dublin, and to request him to obviate to some extent the difficulty of obtaining building materials; also that the Local Government Board be requested to obtain land which might be allotted for food-production, was passed.

PROPOSED CITY EXTENSION.

Mr. Beattie moved that the Council "appoint nine of its members to take part in a friendly contents and the request.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13, 1917.

. Ireland and National Service. The latest proceedings of the Nationalist Party in Parliament deserve and, we hope, will receive the close attention of its constituents. Many of them have proved false to their duty in the war, but they are that the Chief Secretary will be able to all of one mind, we take it, in their make some concessions to the deputation desire to secure for themselves the best possible conditions of life and labour. The Nationalist Party is not only seeking to exclude Irishmen from any opportunity of helping to win the war; it is also seeking, in effect if not in intention, to depress the economic classes, in Dublin is "frightful" is, in conditions of the Irish working classes, rural and urban. Yesterday, on behalf of of the Council over which he presides. the party, Mr. Farrell proposed the exclusion of Ireland from the scope of the National Service Bill. He and his colleagues, as Mr. Duke said in an extremely effective speech, were opposing, not this Bill, but an imaginary measure. They of a second war bonus (at an annual cost represented, or misrepresented, the Bill as introducing industrial conscription. The National Service Bill, of course, does nothing of the kind. It proposes to organise labour upon a purel voluntary basis. It invites men to enro! themselves for civilian service under the State. The volunteer places himself at the disposal of the Director of National Service for employment in any capacity for which he is best fitted. In that employment he will receive the current rate of wages or a minimum wage of twenty-five shillings a week, whichever is higher. It is true that, if the voluntary response is inadequate, appointment of a Government Committee the Government is prepared in the last of Inquiry. It is still grave. We pubyesterday that, in such an event, medical officers. In a naturally healthy the Government is prepared to exclude locality children are starved for milk Ireland. Industrial conscription is the until they have but a poor resistcomplement of military conscription; and ance to infection. Mr. Duke explained yesterday that the chief concern of the Irish organisation under the Bill will be to secure increased tillage in Ireland. The objects of the Bill, so far as it affects Ireland, are "first, the well-being of Ireland and its industries, and secondly, the well-being of the United Kingdom and the which was successfully performed on Saturday,

Distress in Dublin. Yesterday the Dublin Corporation discussed the problem of poverty in the city. The poor are always with us, but their lot sis especially unenviable is war time. It is true that some thouseful of Dublin's working-men are now on active service, and that their families are drawing substantial allowances from the State. On the other hand we have seen a grave increase in the cost of living, and the restriction of normal trade by military necessities has produced a more than ordinary amount of unemployment. The situation, even when stripped of the embellishments of municipal oratory, must be a matter of concern for all thoughtful citizens. The Lord Mayor said that the scarcity and dearness of food are being intensified by the practice of hoarding, and he seemed to suggest that the better classes are chiefly to blame. As a matter of fact, the farmers are by far the most criminal food-hoarders. At this moment the poor of Dublin are

No member of the Corporation could suggest measures for dealing with food-hoarders that would be too stern for our approval. We hope that Lord Devonport will make haste to put down both hoarding and "profiteering" with a heavy hand. We have much sympathy with the Corporation's appeal for State facilities for employment in Dublin, which, perhaps, of all the large cities in the United Kingdom has benefited least by the development of war industries. The need of all available tonnage for war purposes has stopped the imports of timber and other building material to Dublin at a time when there is ample scope for large employment in the building trade. We agree that the Government ought to give special attention to Dublin's special case, and we hope which is about to approach him on the subject. Having said so much, we wish to remind the Corporation that charity begins at home. The Lord Mayor's statement that the present condition not only of the working classes, but of the middle effect, the severest possible condemnation What are we to think of the morality or civic patriotism of a body which steadily aggravates these "frightful" conditions by a reckless piling up of the city rates? If the Lord Mayor had made a scathing protest a few days ago against the granting of £10,000 to the ratepayers) to an army of men whose pay was already the envy of all casual labour in Dublin, we should have begun to take him seriously as a social reformer. He need not expect to be taken seriously so long as his Corpora-tion's own policy is the prime cause of un-employment in Dubim.

Only a fool or a fanatic can suppose that the Government intends to go out of its way to wreck the tillage scheme by withdrawing labour, or, by a violent dislocation of Irish industry, to add economic grievance to political unrest. It has no right, however, to condemn Irish labour to uneconomic conditions by excluding it from the best markets. The Nationalist Party's amendment yesterday rlayed straight into the hands of "sweating" employers of labour in this country. COLONEL E. S. LUCAS SCUDAMORE-LUCAS.

The death has occurred at his residence. Castleshane. County Monaghan, of Colonel Edward Lucas Scudamore-Lucas, No. 15 and the late Fitzherbert Dacre Lucas, who was killed in the siege of Lucknow, and grandson of the late Right Hon. Edward Lucas, Castleshane, who represented the County Monaghan in Parliament for many years, and was for a period Secretary of State for Ireland. Colonel Scudamore-Lucas was born on 8th March, 1853. He was educated at Eton, and Christ Church, Oxford, where be joined the University Volunteers, and commanded the Christ Church company. In 1875, he joined the Herefordshire Regiment, which he commanded during the years 1899 and 1900, and he retired in the year 1903. He married Sybil Frances, daughter of the late Colonel George Webber, C.B., and grand-daughter of the late Charles Tankerville Webber and of the Lady Adelaide Webber, and he leaves a son and two daughters. Colonel Scudamore-Lucas was a Justice of the Peace and a Deputy Lieutenant for the Counties of Monaghan and Hereford, and a Justice of the Peace for the Counties of Monmouth and Radnor. His residences are at Castleshane, County Monaghan, and Kent Church Court, Herefordshire. He was a member of the County Monaghan, and Kent Church Court, Herefordshire. He was a member of the County Monaghan committees of Agriculture and Tach. Monaghan Committees of Agriculture and Technical Thatruction, and manifested a great interest in the walfare of the people. The interment will take place at Kent Church Court, was one of the oldest clergymen in the Church of Ireland. He was ordained in 1851, and spent all his active life in Co. Cork, where, after serving as Curate of Kilbrogan, he was successively Incumbent of Ballycotton, Aghadown, and Macroom. He became Chaplain of Kingston College, Mitchelstown, in 1889, and held that position for 20 years before he retired. Mr. O'Sullivan was elder brother of the late Bishop of Tuam and of the Archdeacon of Killaloe. He married in 1885. Lucia Maria, daughter of the Rev. Benjamin Swete, and had two sons and a daughter. His vounger son, Arthur, was in the Civil Service. DUNDALK GUARDIANS AND MR. JUSTICE ROSS

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON.

MONDAY NIGHT. There were two interesting matters of speculation in the House of Commons this speculation in the House of Commons this afternoon. The first was the attitude to be adopted by the Nationalists towards the Government after their dramatic exit on Wednesday night. The second was the answer that the Government would return to Mr. Asquith's request for the publication of the evidence given before the Dardanelles Commission and for a day to debate its findings.

With regard to the former subject it was quickly evident that the Nationalists were in very captious mood. No matter what the question put to Ministers was, "supplementaries" rained down the front (Congral List, 2014). W. A. Foster, M.C., Can, Int.

With regard to the former subject it was quickly evident that the Nationalists were in very captious mood. No matter what the question put to Ministers was, "supplementaries" rained down the front bench. Whether it was Mr. G. Roberts's ignorance of the existence of coal-mines in Ireland, or the Chief Secretary's refusal to interfere with the export of potatoes for the use of the Navy and Army, or his re-plies to Major Newman's inquiries regardhad several times to pull them up with an intimation that enough had been said. Mr. Devlin was one of the most active questioners, but, to do him justice, he made one good joke. Mr. Duke, much heckled about the alleged unpopularity of the Summer Time Act in Ireland, had admitted that the majority of the rural di trict councils seemed to be against it, while the majority of the urban district councils were favourable. "Then," said Mr. Devlin,

"why not put it in force in those parts of Ireland that want it, and not in those parts that do not?" This allusion to the terms of the Prime Minister's offer of Home Rule was much appreciated by the House in general, and I afterwards saw the leader of the Irish Unionists, Sir John Lonsdale, congratulating Mr. Devlin on his smartness. One touch of humour makes the whole of Ireland kin—a fact which, since the days of Colonel Saunderson, has been trict councils seemed to be against it, while the days of Colonel Saunderson, has been too much forgotten. I am inclined to think that the Nationalists will not carry their hostility to the Government to ruthless lengths. Perhaps, they have come to the conclusion that to force a general election—assuming that It. J.

decide whether they should give their support to the men who failed to make up their minds in 1915 or to the men who have in 1917 introduced a new spirit into the Government, and have just been rewarded by the very satisfactory news from Bagdad which Mr. Law was able to convey to the House to-day. The occupation of Bagdad has given general satisfaction here, and particularly in those places whence a number of the men fighting in Mesopotamia ber of the men fighting in Mesopotamia have been reaches of the Tigris, where our troops have suffered so much. fore the House on report. The exclusion of Ireland was moved by Mr. J. P. Farrell, and he had the support of all his colleagues in the Nationalist Party. The Chief Secretary, in opposing the amendment on behalf of the Government, threw some doubt upon the bona fides of the reason ad-vanced for the exclusion of Ireland, and expressed the opinion that in this matter, not speaking for the people of Ireland as a whole. This brought up Mr. Scanlan, who scornfully referred to the Chief Secretary as the member for Exeter "by one vote," and denied his right, at any rate, to exact for Lychand to speak for Ireland.

Mr. Devlin was very bitter, and emptied the vials of his wrath upon Mr. Duke's head. He used such phrases as "ill-informed," "insulting speech," "unblushing English ignorance"; and, as to the contention that the application of the measure to Ireland was for Ireland's good, his representations: "You can keep your boons and reserve your favours until you give us the liberty which will enable us to be partners in your glories as well as being victims of your administration"—a sentiment which the Nationalists cheered Colonel McCalmont expressed his astonishment at finding Captain Gwynn opposing a Bill which was introduced with the object of winning the war. He agreed with the Home Secretary that the manhood of Ireland was not properly represented by the Nationalist Party. Later in the discussion Mr. Duke announced that it was intended to have an Irish department for National Service under an Irish Controller. There seemed to be a disposition to continue the debate on Mr. Farrell's amendment to an unreasonable extent. tinus the debate on Mr. Farrell's amendment to an unreasonable extent, and the Home Secretary had recourse to the closure, which was carried. Then the amendment to exclude Ireland was divided upon and defeated by 148 to 76. Mr. Hazleton moved an amendment to provide for the appointment of a special Director-General for Ireland, and this subject was under discussion when the debate was adjourned.

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

GERMANY DETERMINED. Voluminous despatches, telegraphs the Washingles Correspondent of The Times, have been received from Havana registering the impressions and experiences of Mr. Gerard and his fellow passengers from Germany. They accentuate the gravity of the situation. Information about the hardships Germans are enduring in respect to food and other things is some than offset by the general agreement that enduring in respect to food and other things is nore than offset by the general agreement that all classes are determined to continue to fight, at any rate until the failure of the submarine campaign is absolutely obvious. Mr. Charles H., Grasty, of the New York Times, who joined Mr. Gerard at Corunna, fresh, from the British front, makes an especial point of warning not only Americans, but the Allies, that the Central powers are not yet on their last legs. He says that "there is a threat of demoralisation in Germany, but the country is still tremendor strong, and will take a lot of beating." military skill in organisation is, he thinks, still such as to counterbalance the obvious superiority of the Allies in other respects.

PETROGRAD FOOD TROUBLES. The Petrograd Correspondent of The Times telegraphs under date March 11th:—The authorities had taken every precaution to keep the strikers away from the centre of the city. The trams were stopped, and troops were posted at the bridges and crossings over the Neva, with orders not to allow workmen to pass. But these precautions were only partly successful. Enormous numbers of hands from the mills and munition works filtered through the barriers.

As their attention was being mainly devoted to the Nevsky, the manufacturing districts on the bouth side were fairly tranquil. At the eleventh bout the Government has decided to agree to a commencement of the measures which have been repeatedly urged—namely, to hand over the feed question to the local bodies. M. Rittich, Minister of Agriculture, in a straightforward statement in the Duma yesterday, admitted that blunders had been made, and that, so far as Petrograd was concerned, the Government assented to the passing of an urgent bill endowing the Municipality with extraordinary powers in arganizing the distribution of bread, and introducing the card system. He pointed out that the present disorders were mainly due to a panic resulting from lack of confidence on the part of the public, who in many cases are hoarding bread.

FOOD RAIDS BY THE BERLIN POLICE.

For some time past, says The Times, the Berlin police, accompanied by officials of the Bureau which is charged with the suppression of "profiteering," have been making organi raids at the railway stations to prevent illicit importation of food into Berlin. The Pembroke Urban District Council, at its monthly meeting yesterday, on the motion of the Chairman (Mr. Charles P. O'Neill, J.P.), reland, or to arrange for purchase by the

The Chairman said that, before the Council proceeded to the ordinary business, he wished to propose a resolution as follows:—

White we, the Pembroke Urban Council, admit that the Government are justified in adopting measures to bring the war to an early and victorious end, and to increase food production, and in having taken over the railways and other concerns and guaranteeing the shareholders against tice to practically ruin licensed traders by depriving them of their life's earnings and means of livelihood without paying proper compensation. We are strongly of opinion that, if the Government cannot see their way to withdraw the proposed far-reaching restrictions with regard to beer and spirits, the Government are bound, in the interests of fustice and rair dealing, to provide for ample compensation to the members of the licensed trade and to the brewers and distillers in Ireland, or to arrange for pur hase by the State. We awould, therefore, ask the members of Parliament for this district to do all in their power to prevent any injustice being done. That copies of this resolution be sent to the Prime Minister, Mr. John Redmond, M.P.; Sir John Lonsdale, M.P.; Mr. P. J. Brady, M.P., and Mr. Alfred Byrne, M.P.

Mr. O'Neill said that this was a matter of national importance. So far as Pembroke was ment in its scheme of food production, in getting money for the war, and in various other ways.

Mr. Bernard O'Reilly seconded the Chairman.
Mr. Thomas Ryan said that, as one interested in the hiensed trade, he had pleasure in supporting that resolution. It would be monstrous to say that those men should be turned out.

The Council agreed to the resolution.

ing statement :-As has already been announced, Bagdad was entered at an early hour yesterday morning— (cheers)—by the forces under the command of Sir Stanley Maude. This is a sequel to a series of brilliant operations which have been carried through by our British and Indian troops with Monday.—Between Soissons and Rheims an enemy surprise attack directed against one of our trenches in the region of Bassy was promptly repulsed by our fire. The enemy sustained losses and left prisoners in our hands.

Towards Maison de Champagne we realised further progress by grenade fighting in the course of the night. There were patrol encounters in the Auberive sector. The number of machine guns which we captured from the enemy on 8th March in the region of Maison de Champagne is twelve.

In the Woevre we made a successful raid on the German trenches to the Sorcheteres. In a dash and determination for which no praise Champagne is twelve.

In the Weevre we minde a successful raid on the Chief Burgomaster of Beglin publishes a strongly-worded protest addressed to the Prussian Minister of the Interior. He says that it is impossible for respectable traders to put up any longer with the police examination, and that the raids are acting as a check on trade; while the claborate police machinery involved is cut of all proportion to the importance of any offences that may be discovered.

THE INDIAN COTTON DUTIES.

AMSTERDAM, MONDAY.

The Dutch Press is unanimous in regarding the capture of Bagdad as a great British success. The Tyd says:—The success is all the more important as Bagdad was not evacuated without resistance from the Turks, who fought heavily for its possession from March 8 to March 11. The paper expects a speedy junction of 'the Russo-British forces, and considers that a matter of great significance is that the Bagdad railway scheme now appears to have become an illusion.

Mr. HAYES FISHER said that the amendment could not be accepted. It would tie the hands of the Director-General of National Serservants. THE HOME SECRETARY. Sir GEORGE CAVE said that he felt the force of the suggestion made by Mr. Herbert Samuel, and had communicated with Mr. Neville Chamberlain on the subject. Mr. Chamberlain recognised that the suggestion was worthy of consideration, and he proposed to appoint a Committee to advise him on these matters—a Committee to advise him on these matters—a Committee on which he hoped that members of the House would serve. He was not, however, to be precluded from appointing on the Committee other experts who were not members. He intended to submit to the Committee his proposals before he took any faction. That seemed to be a very reasonable compromise, and he hoped it would be accepted and the amendment withdrawn.

The DEPUTY-SPEAKER replied that it was quite in order.

"Your attendance on Wednesday next, 14th March, is most urgently and specially requested to support the Government in a vital division on the Indian cotton duties.

"Neil Paismons."

It is rather tardily that the Government have issued this whip. A good number of Conservatives, as has been intimated, desire actually to snatch a General Election on party lines out of the imbroofte into which their Tariff policy has plunged the Government, and yesterday, behind the scenes, this section of the Tories made their influence felt, and they were even counting on winning over Mr. Lloyd George to this line of action. Up to now the Prime Minister has cold-shouldered, the idea, though it is known that, the would have rather favoured a General Election could it have been taken in January last. The Labour Party decided yesterday that their members could vote as they please in to-morrow-s division. The Irish Nationalists have not yet decided on their course, and will meet to-day, but they are sending out a full whip for to-morrow. The Government are sending whips to the few of their supporters who are still at the front.

The Government will be challenged to a division on the Indian cofton duties to-morrow, and it is stated that if the vote is against them, the Government will resign, says the Daily Chromicle. A general election would then follow. Regardless of the merits of the question, the Nationalists will vote against the Government defeat is quite probable. We trust Mr. Asquith, and believe that no action of his will precipitate the national calamity of a general election at this juncture.

MR. LYNCH.

Mr. LYNCH said that with the words of the Prime Minister fresh in their minds, that no legislation would be forced on Ireland, when a minority objected, they had this bill, obnoxious to the overwhelming majority of the Irish people, being pushed forward with only the support of a small minority. The Irish people would regard it as the thin end of the wedge of a compulsory system.

Mr. MASON thought it ironical in the extreme to expect enthusiastic support from Ireland after the recent speech of the Prime Minister. How could they expect a good response from the Irish people, when the Government had antagonised them by their policy? It was suggested that Ireland should have a Director-General of its own. It was ludicrous to expect Irish members to agree to such an appointment when they did not know who he was to be.

THE MILK SUPPLY.

Letter from Sir Henry Blake.

TO THE BDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Sir.,—To-day's issue of the Irish Times contains a report of an important letter from Dr.

Lynch, medical officer of health of Clashmore, to the Youghal Board of Guardians, describing the disastrous effects upon the children of the want of milk. The cause of the shortage in the supply of that prime necessity for children's food was stated by one of the guardians to be the Local Government Board's rule of compulsory registration and inspection of dairies, which has caused farmers, and persons whose small dairies afforded a surplus that before the regulation was available for purchase in small quantities by neighbours, to cease to sell. I can vouch for this effect from personal knowledge.

The regulation is theoretically admirable, but the people who keep cows are not enamoured of inspection, and, if the result is the practical starvation of young children, the cure may be worse than the disease. At the worst it resolves itself into a case of resistance versus infection. At a time when the food of the people is being curtailed. I venture to suggest to the Local Government Board that any restriction unduly adding to the difficulties of the poorer families may well be suspended during the war. Every young life is peculiarly precious at this period of awful wastage of the manhood of the nation.—Yours, etc., THE MILK SUPPLY.

THE BLACK REDSTART.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

Six,—On several occasions since early in January we have seen a hen black redstart (ruticilla Titys, ecopoli). We have seen the bird in question fairly regularly during the greater part of January, and until the last day of February, since which date it has not appeared. We conclude, therefore, that it has migrated. The Irish Naturalist, February, 1917, contains an account of the arrival at and departure from Ballyhyland, Co. Wexford, in November, 1916, of two female birds of this species. We should, therefore, be glad to learn from a more competent authority than ourselves whether the black redstart usually remains with us as late as we have observed it.—Yours, etc.,
